DETAILED ACTION

The amendment filed 10/01/2008 is acknowledged.

The objection to claim 21 is withdrawn in view of applicant's amendment.

The following rejection is maintained in this action:

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

Claims 16, 19-30, 44 and 45 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

The claims set out "collagen, collagen derivatives" and then later composites of collagen and collagen derivatives". The latter would appear to be encompassed by the term "collagen derivatives" on its own. Therefore, the metes and bounds of the claimed Markush Group are indefinite. Clarification is requested. It is suggested the latter terms referring to the composites be deleted.

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments filed 10/01/2008 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive.

Applicants' argue that " a collagen derivative is a chemically modified collagen while a composite as claimed comprises collagen or a collagen derivative and other substances". While the definitions provided through Wikipedia are noted, it is art recognized that composites are coexistent with derivatives. Applicants' own statement seems to verify this. Correction is requested.

The following is a new rejection of the claims:

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 16, 19-24, 30, 44 and 45 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Langer et al (US Patent No. 6,224,893).

Langer et al an interpenetrating polymer scaffold for either drug delivery or tissue regeneration using cells (see Abstract).The networks include copolymers or blends of polymers including collagen, hyaluronic acid, lactic acid or caprolactone (see col. 3, lines 40-67; col. 4, lines 1-67; col. 5, lines 1-35). Cells for attachment and the process of doing so are disclosed at col. 8, lines 40-67; col. 9, lines 1-45). Drugs for incorporation are listed at col. 9, lines 50-65.As such, the reference teaches at least one base material of a resorbable material from those claimed. The broad inclusion of drivatives and composites without size distinction would allow those of ordinary skill to expect similar therapeutic results from the claimed composition given the disclosure of Langer et al. Further, while applicant specifies electrostatically flocced fibers, this is view as a process limitation which does not patentably distinguish the claimed composition. It is applicant's burden to show an unexpected or unusual result. The instantly claimed scaffold would have therefore been obvious to ne of ordinary skill at the time of invention given the disclosure of Langer et al.
